I, CATHERINE JOAN EZARD
of SEAK COVE GUEST HOUSE
BLOWHOKES RD
CAPE BRIDGEWATER

in the State of Victoria do solemnly and

sincerely declare

THAT

I was present at the Cape Bridgewater Holiday Camp when Peter Gamble + crew arrived to do the verification testing.

After some discussions with Alan Smith they went outside to check where phone equipment was located.

A young Telstra employee disconnected the phones + fax machine from the office. He went to the main hall and disconnected the extension phone and the gold phone.

He came back to the office a couple of times asking if we had any other equipment connected to the lines as his testing was indicating something was still across the lines so he couldn't do any testing.

I checked with him that everything at the camp was disconnected but it didn't solve his problem.

After the employee spoke with Peter Gamble about the problem, Peter Gamble rang the employees at the exchange and appeared to be rather irate.

I was at the camp for the duration of Peter Gamble's visit, mostly in the office.

No volume of calls came through the camp. It appeared to me that Peter Gamble became quite agitated while trying to do the testing.

These are my recollections of events which occurred on 9th September 1997.

At the time of testing I wrote a statutory declaration of my observations. I gave this to Alan Smith.
